The Globe Theatre

The Globe Theatre was a playhouse in London where many of Shakespeare's plays were first performed. The Globe was built in 1599 and was destroyed by fire in 1613. It was rebuilt in 1614 and was closed in 1642 by the Puritans. The Globe was rebuilt in 1997 and is now a major tourist attraction.

The Globe is a unique theatre experience. It is an open-air theatre, which means that the audience is exposed to the elements. The Globe is also a reconstruction of the original theatre, which means that it is as close as we can get to seeing a Shakespeare play as it would have been performed in Shakespeare's time.

The Globe is a great place to see a Shakespeare play. The atmosphere is electric and the performances are always top-notch. If you're ever in London, be sure to check out the Globe Theatre.

The Royal Shakespeare Company

The Royal Shakespeare Company (RSC) is a world-renowned theatre company that specializes in the performance of Shakespeare's plays. The RSC was founded in 1822 and is based in Stratford-upon-Avon, Shakespeare's birthplace. The RSC performs a variety of Shakespeare's plays each year, both at its home theatre in Stratford-upon-Avon and on tour around the world.

The RSC is one of the most respected theatre companies in the world. Its productions are known for their high quality and their faithfulness to Shakespeare's original texts. The RSC also has a strong educational outreach program, which helps to bring Shakespeare's plays to new audiences.

If you're looking for a great way to see a Shakespeare play, the RSC is the perfect choice. The RSC's productions are always top-notch and the atmosphere is electric. If you're ever in Stratford-upon-Avon, be sure to check out the RSC.
