Tokyo Atsons is a shopping mall and office complex located in the Shinjuku district of Tokyo, Japan. It is known for its distinctive architecture, which features a large, glass-domed atrium. The mall has been featured in several films and television shows, including "Lost in Translation," "The Fast and the Furious: Tokyo Drift," and "Resident Evil: Retribution."

Architecture

Tokyo Atsons was designed by Japanese architect Kengo Kuma. The mall's most striking feature is its large, glass-domed atrium. The atrium is 10 stories high and is covered by a glass roof that allows natural light to flood into the mall. The atrium is also home to a number of escalators and elevators, which provide access to the mall's different levels.

In addition to the atrium, Tokyo Atsons also features a number of other architectural highlights. These include a rooftop garden, a water feature, and a number of public art installations. The mall also has a number of restaurants, cafes, and shops.

Location

Tokyo Atsons is located in the Shinjuku district of Tokyo. Shinjuku is one of the busiest and most popular districts in Tokyo, and it is home to a number of shops, restaurants, and entertainment venues. Tokyo Atsons is located just a few minutes' walk from Shinjuku Station, which is one of the busiest train stations in the world.

Films and Television Shows

Tokyo Atsons has been featured in several films and television shows. These include:

- "Lost in Translation" (2003)
- "The Fast and the Furious: Tokyo Drift" (2006)
- "Resident Evil: Retribution" (2012)

In "Lost in Translation," Tokyo Atsons is used as a setting for a scene in which Bob Harris (Bill Murray) and Charlotte (Scarlett Johansson) go shopping. In "The Fast and the Furious: Tokyo Drift," Tokyo Atsons is used as a setting for a scene in which Sean Boswell (Lucas Black) races against Takashi (Brian Tee). In "Resident Evil: Retribution," Tokyo Atsons is used as a setting for a scene in which Alice (Milla Jovovich) fights against a horde of zombies.

Tokyo Atsons is a unique and iconic shopping mall that has been featured in several films and television shows. The mall's distinctive architecture and its location in the heart of Tokyo make it a popular destination for both tourists and locals alike.
